TODAY WE APPLIED YOUR LAST APPLICATION

- _____ Lbs. of 34-0-5 Dry Granular Fertilizer
- _____ Lbs. 30-3-5 Dry Granular Fertilizer
- _____ Lbs. of Pelletized Calcitic Lime (Applied at the same time when possible).

Experts agree that Fall is the most beneficial time of the year to fertilize your lawn. Remember that the true Fall season is September 21st - December 21st. Winter begins December 21st contrary to what the weatherman on the news says. They think winter starts when the temperature approaches 32 degrees for the first time. The Ohio State University has done research stating that late season fertilization is best. This is why we applied today's feeding. The biggest advantage is that the lawn will get good color without a lot of top growth. This develops a healthier root system that will keep your lawn looking good until next Spring.

We did our best to apply treatment when the leaves were not too much of a problem. If we can see 80% of the grass, we went ahead with the application. Please keep in mind that an application in the morning may have had a lot of leaves come down afterward. If you feel that too many leaves were down, we will come back and reapply. Simply give us a call when the leaves are up. We put a rush on these and are usually out within a day or two. If you can't get to the leaves, we have crews to remove them for you, give our office a call to schedule a fall cleanup.

MOWING TIPS

It is a good idea not to put the mower away until around Thanksgiving. You don't want the grass to be too high going into winter or you could have a snow mold problem. Snow mold is caused by grass variety, weather, and other factors you can't control. By controlling grass height you can keep it from matting down during heavy snows. This matting is where the fungus develops.

The biggest mistake is to scalp the lawn. This used to be the norm, but research has shown that this is not healthy. Why knock all the color out when, by mowing correctly, your lawn can be nice and green right through to Spring. I continue to mow at the same setting until the final mowing. The trick is to mow the lawn twice the final time. Once at the regular setting, then lower the mower one level, and mow again.
